PROVENANCE:

Six boxes and four filing cabinets were donated to the Medical Center Archives on February 7, 1987 and March 8, 1991, respectively, by Walter Riker, Jr. The records were originally cataloged as The Walter F. Riker, Jr. Papers, but it was later determined to reorganize them as The Department of Pharmacology: Walter F. Riker, Jr. (Chairman) Records in 2008. Additional items (including mounted diplomas, certificates, medals, plaques, audio cassette tapes, and binocular loupes) were donated by the family of Walter Riker, Jr. in 2018 and added to the collection in 2019.

ADMINISTRATIVE/BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE:

WALTER F. RIKER, JR.:

Dr. Walter Riker, Jr., was born on March 8, 1916 in New York City. He received his BS from Columbia University in 1939 and an MD from Cornell University Medical College in 1943. He spent his entire career at Cornell University Medical College. He was appointed as an instructor in pharmacology in 1941 and rose to professor/chairman of the Department of Pharmacology in 1956. In 1970, he was also a professor of neurobiology at Cornell University Graduate School for Medical Sciences. He was awarded the endowed Revlon Pharmaceutical Professor of Pharmacology in 1979. He received the John J. Abel Award from the American Society for Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics in 1951.

Dr. Riker served on professional committees outside of the medical center, including serving as chairman of the Board of Publications Trustees of the American Society for Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics, and the Board of Directors for the New York State Society for Medical Research. At the medical college, he served on several committees, including the Executive Faculty Council and various search committees, and he headed the investigation into the CIA activities at the medical college in the 1950s.

Dr. Riker retired in 1983, and passed away in 2004.

DEPARTMENT OF PHARMACOLOGY

The Department of Pharmacology began as the Department of Materia Medica and Therapeutics in 1899. The department taught second and third year students about the newest drugs and therapeutics. Clinical instruction was offered to third and fourth year students at Bellevue Hospital and, starting in 1907, at New York Hospital. Henry Loomis was the head of the department at this time.

In 1908, the department changed its name to Department of Pharmacology and Materia Medica. Led by Robert Hatcher, the department taught medical students about current drug treatments.

In 1909 the Department of Experimental Therapeutics was established, and occupied the remodeled Loomis Laboratories. The new department, led by S. S. Beebe, focused on the problems of practical therapeutics. The new labs included work in physiology, pathology, serum pathology, and physiological chemistry. One of the research projects was the Huntington Fund for Cancer Research. The Department of Experimental Therapeutics was discontinued in 1915.

The Department of General Therapeutics was also established in 1909. Led by Frank Meara, the instruction taught applied therapeutics to medical students. Clinical instruction was offered at Bellevue Hospital, though this was discontinued in 1920.

In 1910, Applied Pharmacology became a separate department and taught third year medical students. It was discontinued in 1916 or 1917.

In 1920, the Department of Pharmacology and Materia Medica, led by Robert Hatcher, changed its name to the Department of Pharmacology. In 1932, the department continued under Dr. Hatcher's leadership at the new medical center. Dr. Hatcher came to the medical college in 1904 as an instructor in pharmacology and took over as head of the Department of Pharmacology and Materia Medica in 1908. Dr. Hatcher introduced experimental pharmacology to the medical college. He was interested in digitalis research.

Under Dr. Hatcher's leadership, Dr. Harry Gold joined the faculty in 1922. Dr. Gold was a renowned clinical pharmacologist. His most notable research was digitalis drugs and the double blind studies.

Dr. McKen Cattell succeeded as chairman of the department in 1936. He was interested in the physiology of muscles and collaborated with Dr. Gold on the digitalis studies. The faculty of the department grew under his leadership.

Dr. Walter Riker, Jr., who came to the medical college as a student, succeeded as chairman of the department in 1956. Under his leadership, a pre- and post-doctoral training program was developed, and the department had an active research program.

Following Dr. Riker's retirement in 1983, Walter Chan served as acting chairman until 1991 when Lorraine Gudas took over the chairmanship.
